DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's request for reconsideration has been fully considered but is not persuasive. Applicants state that Nagle does not teach using carbides of Sc, V, Mo, or Nb. However, Nagle does teach such a limitation in column 8, lines 58-67.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 24 is objected to because of the following informalities: the claim is identical to Claim 22. Claim 24 must either be cancelled or amended to be distinguishable from Claim 22. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 18, 20, and 21-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nagle et al (US 4,915,908).

Art Unit: 1742

Nagle anticipates the claimed invention. Nagle teaches a method for the production of a composite comprising a distribution of second phase particles in a metal, metal alloy, or intermetallic final matrix. The method comprises the following steps:

- a) preparing a mixture of elemental powders and a substantially nonreactive solvent metal,
- b) adding the mixture to a molten metal matrix, metal alloy, or intermetallic, and
- c) forming the composite by the diffusion and reaction of the mixture (Claim 1).

The solvent metal and the molten matrix metal comprise aluminum or alloys of aluminum (Claim 8). The particulate second phase includes zirconium carbide (Claim 16). Example 5 in column 7 demonstrates the ability to disperse titanium carbide second phase particles throughout an aluminum final matrix. Nagle also teaches that the particle size is from less than about 0.01 to about 0.5 microns (column 13, lines 63 and 64). Examples of the second phase ceramic precipitates are carbides and include molybdenum, niobium, vanadium, and scandium (column 8, lines 58-62).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1742

6. Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Nagle.

Nagle teaches the invention substantially as claimed. Though Nagle teaches that the particle size is from less than about 0.01 to about 0.5 microns (column 13, lines 63 and 64), Nagle does not disclose the step of providing a chloride salt as claimed. Where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established. In re Best, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). Applicants state on page 9, lines 5-7 that the salt is decanted or removed after the reaction occurs to produce the carbide particles. Therefore, the final product taught in Nagle reads on the claimed product.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
